WELCOME to the warm, relaxing, and satisfying lifestyle that you find with THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION.™ As you read through this brochure, we will reintroduce you to a time when people valued craftsmanship and also admired individuality. We find that as people try to explain THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION™ lifestyle, words like strong, stable, serene, clean, natural, authentic, unique, efficient and independent fill their conversations. Whether THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION™ is the country estate of a multimillionaire, the place "just like Grandad's," or a chance to live a personal dream, we know you will find it to be,

"...the perfect choice."

"...a way of life."

Though the celebrity status awarded Bob Timberlake is rooted in his skill as a painter, his talent for interpreting extraordinary character in commonplace objects sets him apart from most artists. The story Timberlake has told so well through his paintings of log buildings has now come alive through this collection of hand crafted homes.

Just over three years ago, when Bob paused with his paint brush just long enough to design a few pieces of furniture, he never imagined his modest entry into the home furnishings industry would turn into a twentieth century marketing phenomenom. His design ability and creativity has resulted in one of the most comprehensive and the most successful home furnishings programs in the world.

Despite all his success in art and design, Bob views his log home collection as one of his most rewarding accomplishments. Now he is able to share the "way of life" he has grown to know and cherish from working at his studio.

"The beauty of a hand crafted log home is that it is timeless. Whether newly completed or a landmark, a hand crafted log home is a link to our past ... a part of our heritage ... a symbol which sets us aside as Americans. Log homes represent all that is good in this country ... independence, self sufficiency, the values of friendship ... and the importance of family."

— BOB TIMBERLAKE

"...A dream log home, worth the 20-year wait."

It is a dream come true.

Coach Steve Deavours spent over 20 years looking for and dreaming of his perfect log home.

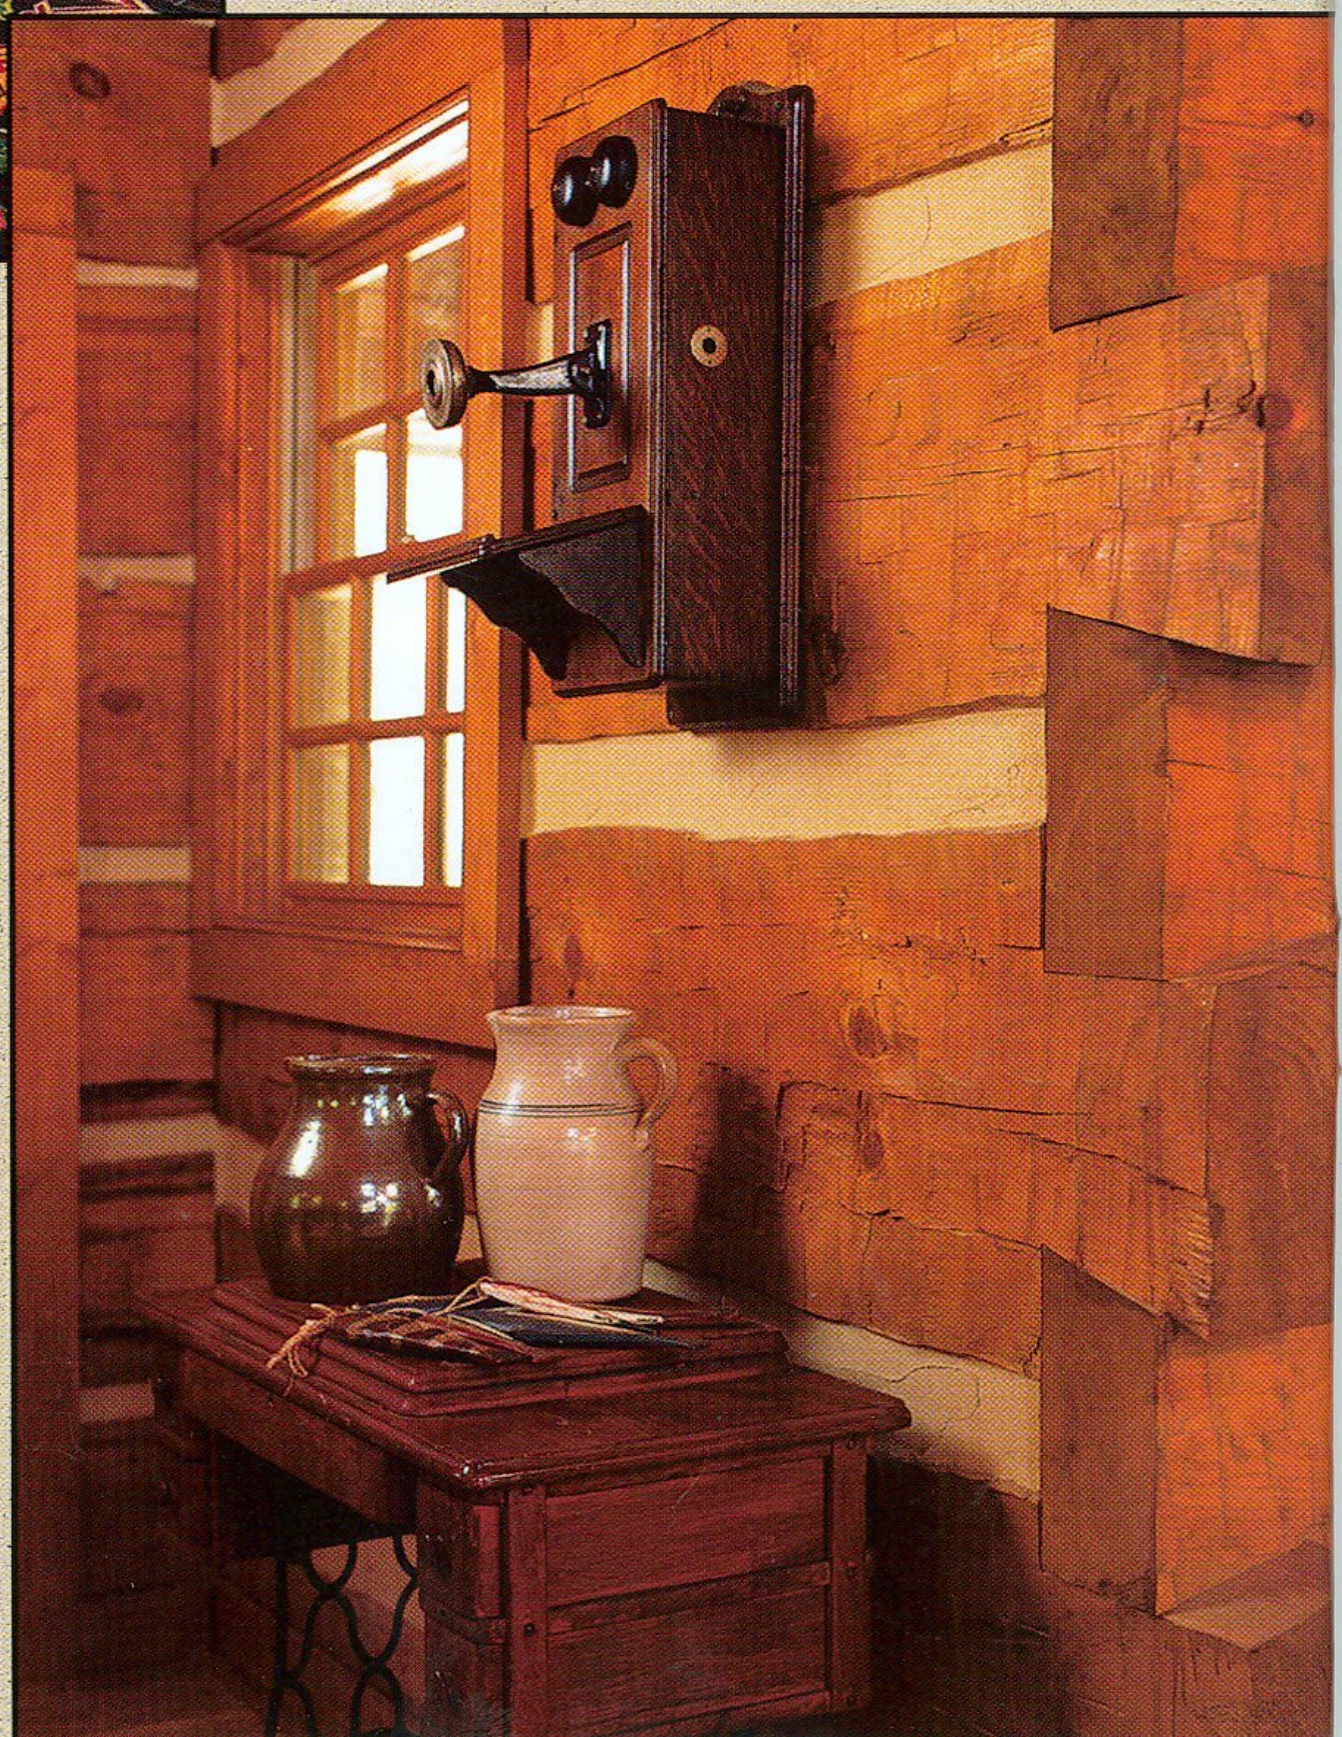

The 2,500 square foot home is made of white pine from the forests of North Carolina and Tennessee. It is built with massive square, hand-hewn naturally shaped logs. Deavours commented, "I am extremely impressed by its energy efficiency."

The shape and the style of the hand hewn logs is what he likes most about his Bob Timberlake log home.

Deavours' spacious home is simple and very authentic. The natural color of the floors and walls fit perfectly with the simple furnishings in each room.

"Working with Hearthstone has been great. They have been wonderful to work with, because they are always true to their word."

— Steve Deavours

"Many people have gone through the house since it's been built, and there hasn't been one person who hasn't fallen in love with it. It's very unique and different from most other houses. Just being in it gives me a very warm feeling; it makes me feel so good."

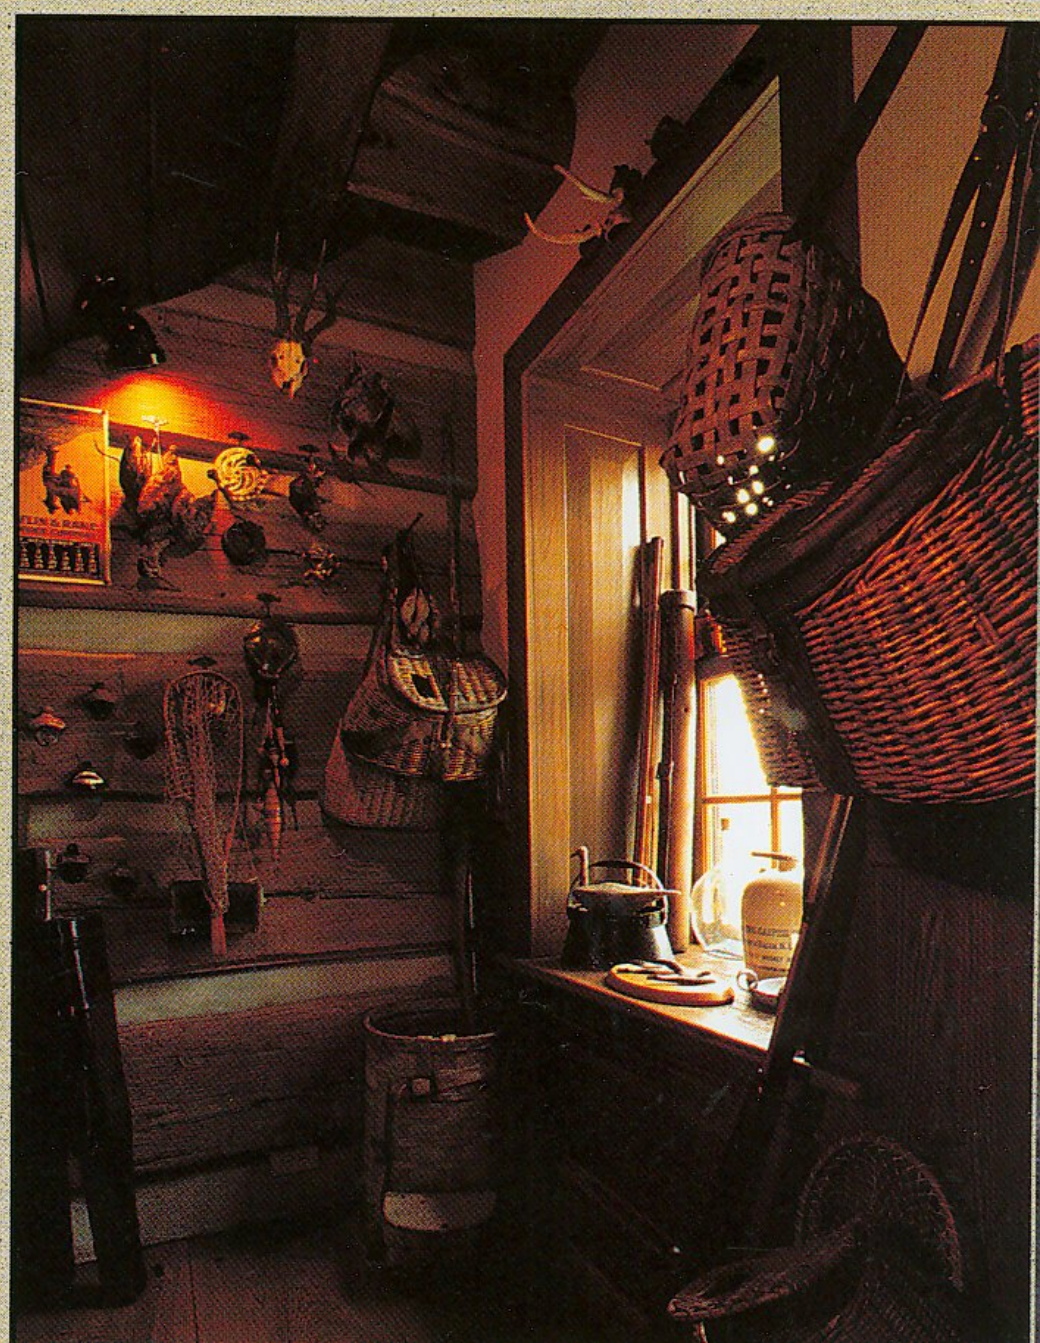

— Steve Deavours

"I have been designing and building structures for over thirty-five years, and without question, the ones I appreciate most are the hand-crafted log homes. They hold a fascination for me which is difficult to explain. Possibly it is because they have such an ambiance about them, such permanence, and such a significant status in our history. Whatever the reasons, I do know this: There are few things which are more uniquely or originally American as log homes. They have graced this great land of ours for several generations and have served as monuments to the lives of our forefathers.

"It has been tremendously exciting for me to have worked with all the fine folks at Hearthstone while developing this collection. I sincerely hope you will take the opportunity to enjoy this same excitement and find out how very satisfying log home ownership can be."

"...simple elegance."

The simple elegance from THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION™ not only welcomes the furnishings and accessories from The Bob Timberlake Collection,™ it is built to reflect everything that is integral to the needs of the American homeowner: ingenuity, pride, simplicity, and the integrity of durable craftsmanship and incomparable service.

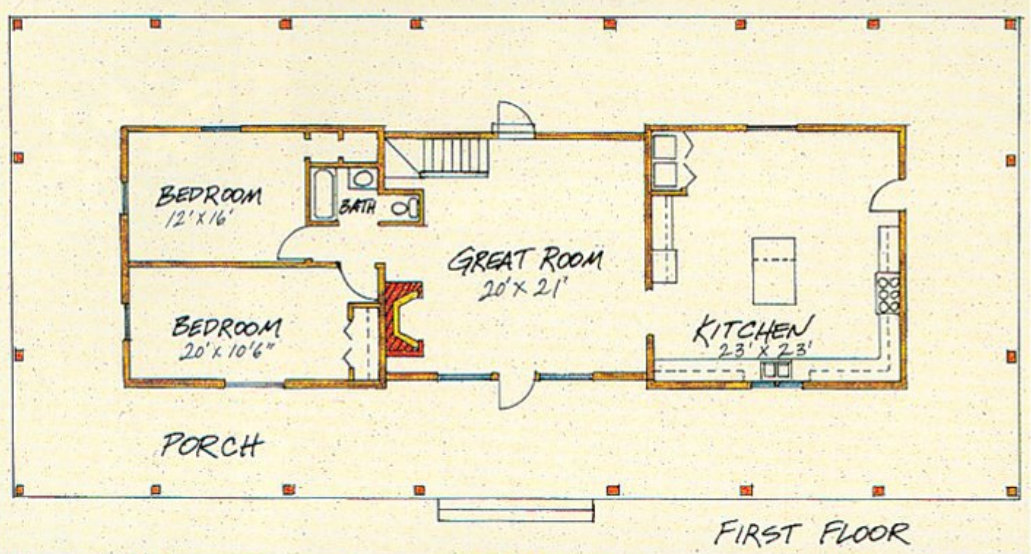

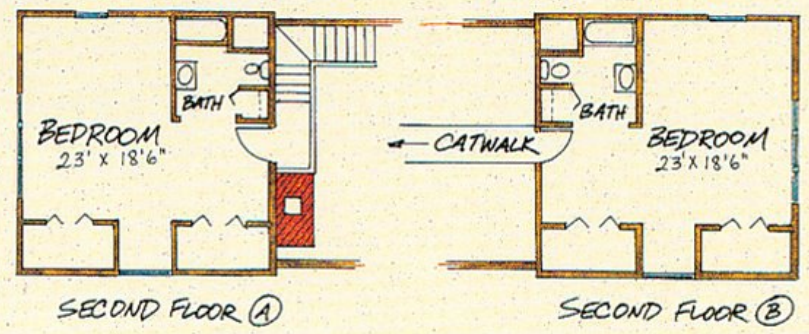

Several designs from THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION™ bring back a lost tradition. In the 1700's pioneers built a log box or what they called a "pen." Another pen of similar width could be added at any time and put under a continuous roof. These pens would be spaced apart and the space in between left open as a porch or breezeway. This style house is called a dog trot because the family dogs loved to lie around in this central area. Later families closed this area in to utilize the space.

Today, this style of construction offers a chance to build a traditional home that is easy to construct and lends itself well to future additions.

"The Studio"

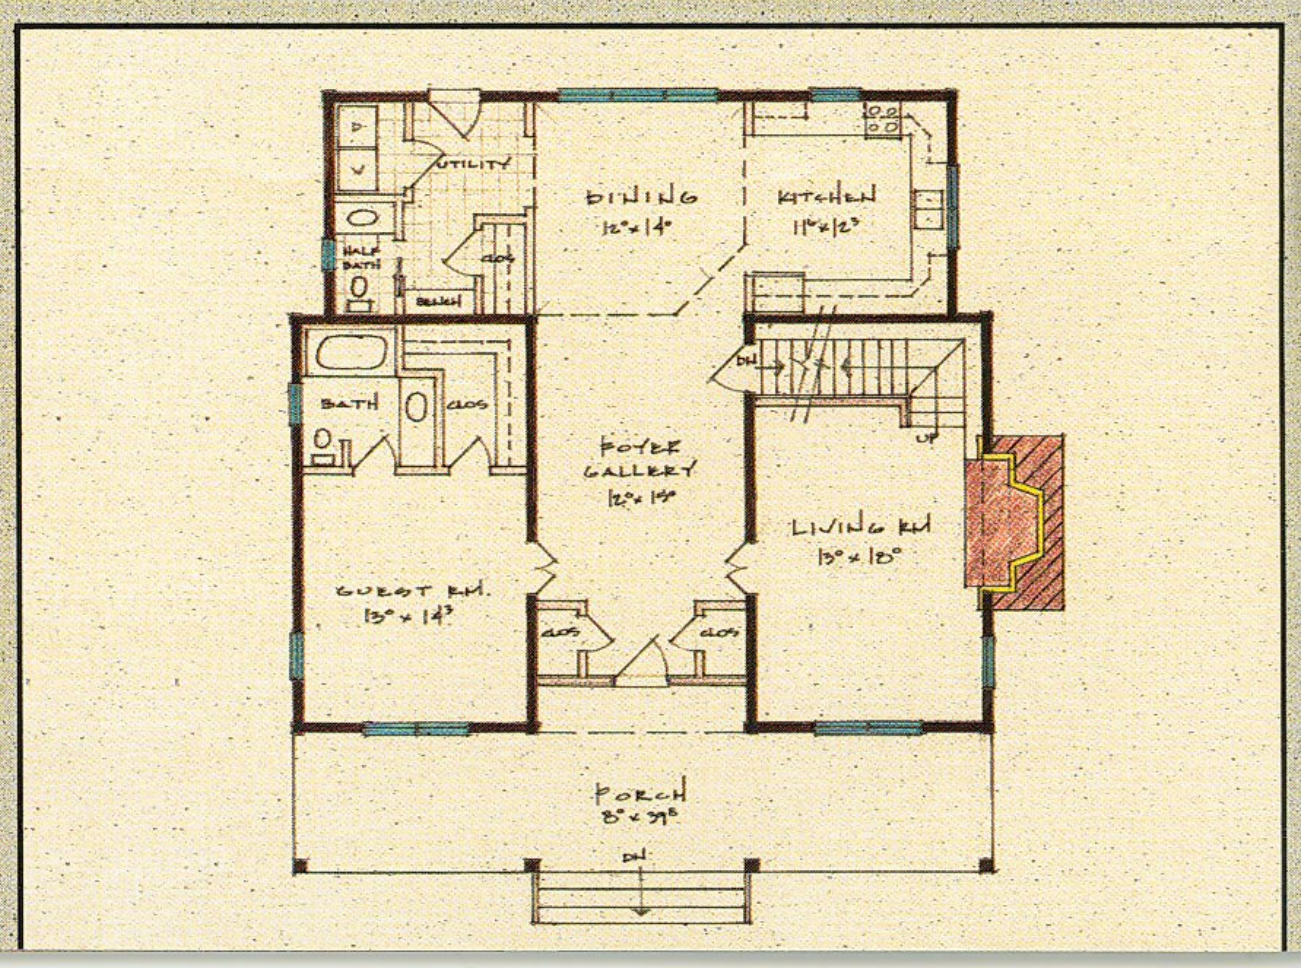

The real spark and inspiration for THE BOB TIMBERLAKE LOG HOME COLLECTION™, comes from Bob's log studio. The studio was constructed from an old barn, originally built by Henry Shoaf in 1809. Mr Shoaf's initials and date are still visible in one of the logs now used in the main hall. The Shoaf barn was moved to the present site and the original logs were laid back in place. Bob transformed the barn into a 4,000 square foot, three-story studio. The history of this log home/studio is impressive, considering that some of the logs came from trees growing three centuries ago. A few of the logs from the Shoaf barn were more than 50 feet long. We are thrilled to be able to offer the floor plans for "The Studio" as one of our floorplan options.

"The Robinson"

First Floor

On high, rolling land John Robinson built the best house he knew how to build. He had an axe, some hand made nails and the grit to stick with the job until it was finished, and not much more.

Now more than 200 years later, his house has been remodeled several times, taken apart, and moved over 100 miles. Like many houses of that era, it is rumored that George Washington stopped there. We do know that one of Washington's Brigadier Generals, Matthew Locke, owned the house for a while.

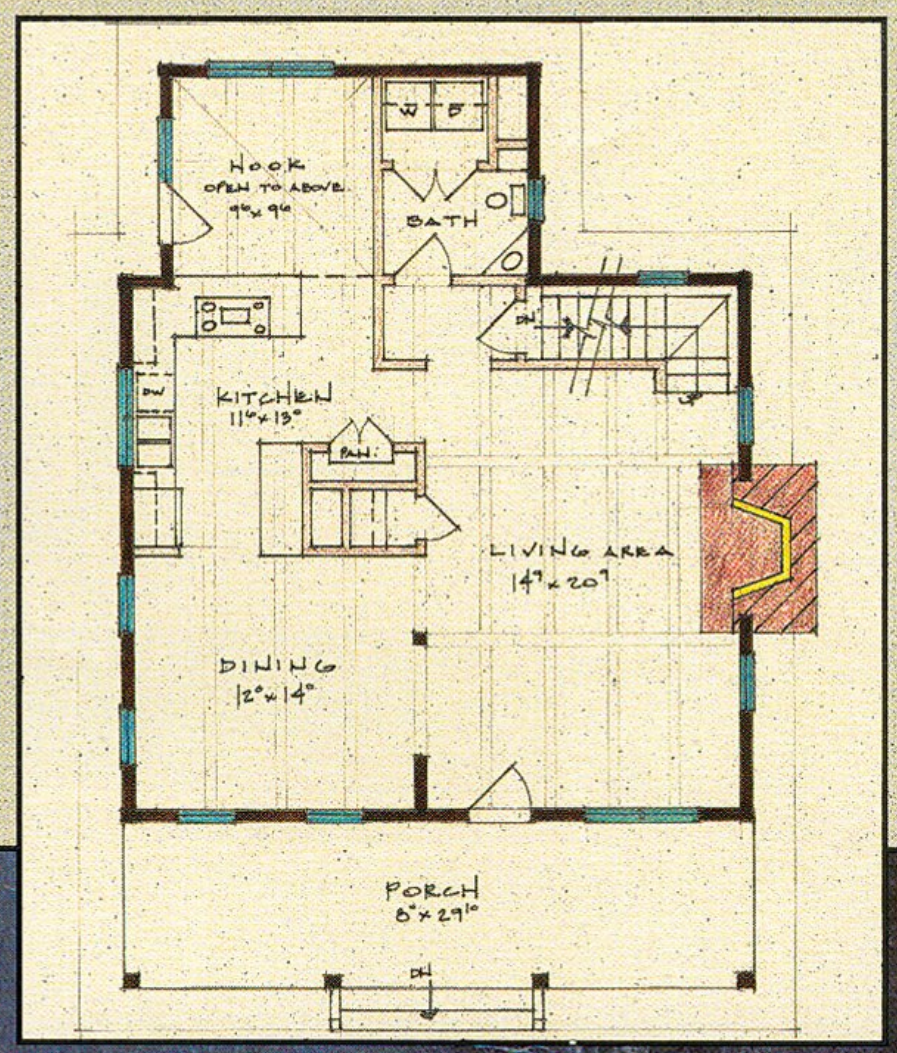

It is not the history that we are copying, but the enduring style and longevity of Robinson's construction techniques.

"The Watkins"

The house pictured below is a replica of a log home that was built in the early 1800's and owned by the Sheriff of Stokes County, Mr. Peter Doub Watkins. The Watkin's house that stands in Snow Creek, North Carolina served as the Post Office. Mr. and Mrs. Watkins raised their thirteen children in their handsomely crafted home.

"The Grove"

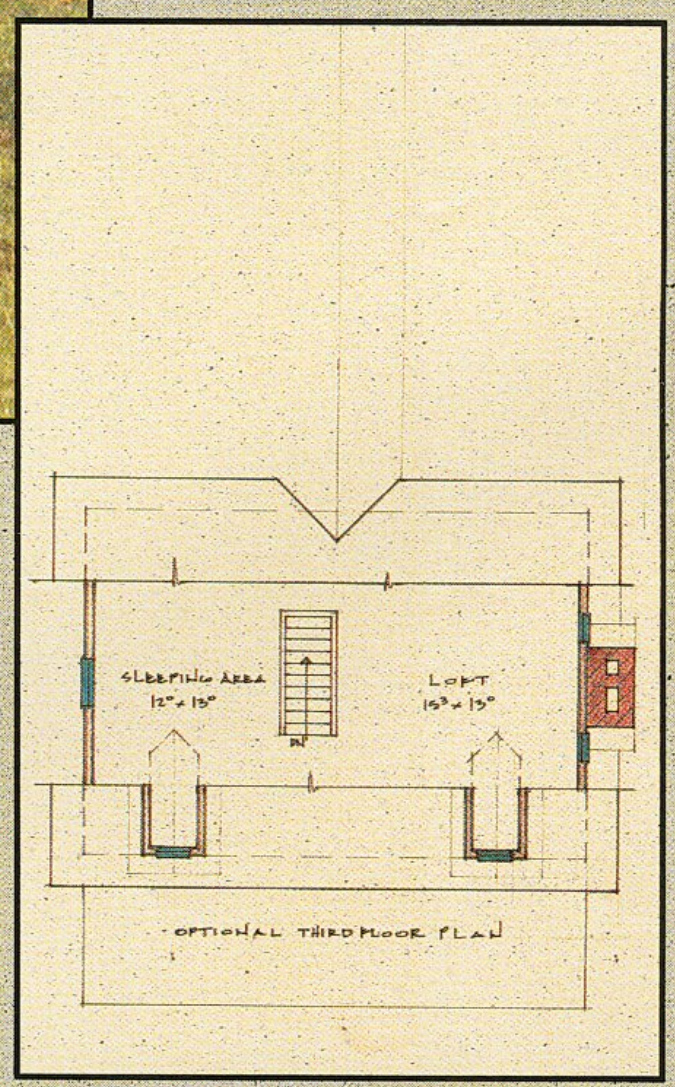

This three-story log home belongs to Shaun Swing and used to stand in the Holly-Grove Community in Lexington, North Carolina. There, each log was numbered, taken apart one by one, and moved to the Hendricks Grove Community, a few miles away. The house was reconstructed from the numbered logs and remodeled into the log home featured here. The Timberlake version of "The Grove" is also available in a two-story model.

"The Swing"

The home of Rene Swing and family sits on the crest of a gently sloping piece of land. He created his log home from a log barn, an old house, and a tobacco barn.

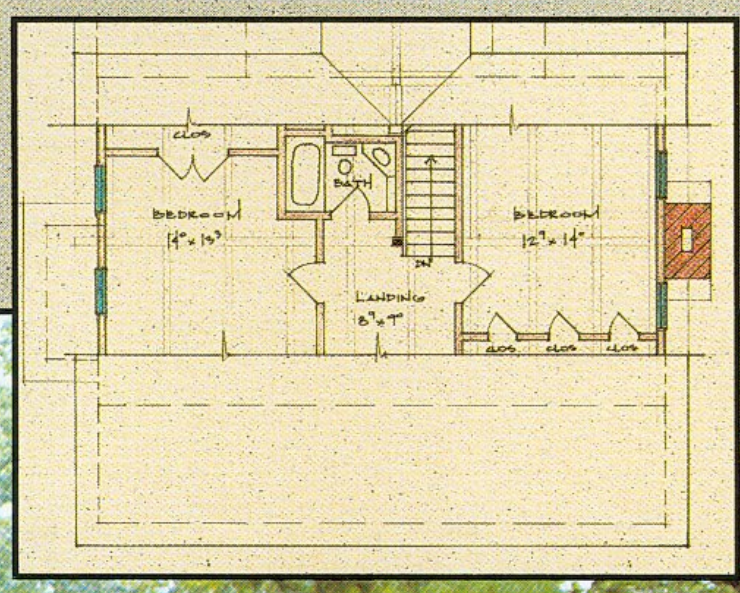

The main part of the house was originally built in Madison, North Carolina. Rene took down the house log by log, numbered it, and rebuilt it. The house also contains two rock chimneys. The home is all wood — a combination of oak, pine, and cedar.

When walking in this home it still appears as it did in the late 1700's, when it was originally built, except for a few modern conveniences.

Bob Timberlake added this floor plan to his log home collection because of the original structure's unique history.

"The Guest House"

The "Guest House" sits next to Bob Timberlake's log studio. It is an original log home constructed around 1780. It was moved to Bob's studio site, with a kitchen and bathroom added to the back of the house. The "Guest House" has about 800 square feet in its two-story construction. The front porch and stone fireplace make this a special place indeed.

...about Hearthstone.

The joining of the talents of Bob Timberlake and Hearthstone is a masterpiece of logic and cooperation. Hearthstone's most distinguishing feature within the log home industry has always been a dedication to the look and style of the 150-200 year old log homes. This partnership is a natural and exciting one: Bob contributes a design style that preserves and celebrates the incredible character of those old homes. Hearthstone contributes proven industry leadership, a tradition of service, and the experience that comes from building thousands of log homes over several decades.

After the romance and the dream, comes the need to convert the dream to reality. That is Hearthstone's job. To that timeless look and style, we add the finest in modern design, engineering, craftsmanship, and essential services. The result is a rewarding, and unmatched, living environment for you and your family.

Hearthstone was founded in 1971 by James Munsey. His trade, and the foundation of the company, was the restoration of 150-200 year old log homes. This origin has always been at the core of our philosophy, and it is a tremendous privilege for us to have returned – full circle – to our roots.

"On a cold winter's night, when I sit by the fireplace in my log home and watch the firelight reflect on the hewn log walls, I feel not only warmth and security, but a link with my heritage. Here I can relax and be at peace."
